PROFILE

I'm a UK-based web designer and developer, and I'm all about crafting beautiful user experiences on the web.

I've spent more than 8 years honing my skills in understanding web users, designing/building seamless web experiences, and helping businesses grow with an online presence worth being proud of.

I live and breathe tech - you won't find me far from my laptop on any given day, and I thrive on embracing new digital challenges.

My competencies span all things related to frontend dev and digital design - building interfaces, designing dashboards, dabbling in graphic design, learning new technologies, working with CMS systems, and so on.

WORK EXPERIENCE

UX Developer

Fantom Factory | Jul 2025 - Present

- Routinely took features from rough concept to clean, production-ready frontend code, bridging the gap between design and development.
- Collaborated on a Markdown-based dashboard framework from scratch with multi-theme support and adaptive branding.
- Led the design, dev & launch of all outward-facing marketing sites, enhancing the company's digital presence with a cohesive, modern style.
- Handled UI design for complex datasets, building analytics, and e-learning platforms, turning dense technical information into clean, easy-to-read interfaces.
- Quickly picked up unfamiliar tools - including Axon, custom post-processors, and custom templating engines - to smoothly adapt to the company's specialised tech stack.

Freelance Web Design/Developer

Self | Mar 2019 - Present

- Developed hand-coded prototypes before translating them into manageable CMS (WordPress, Webflow, Squarespace, Wix, etc) sites, including setting up custom client training.
- Managed projects from initial brief to final delivery, translating technical concepts into plain English to keep clients in-the-loop throughout the process.
- Regularly built lightweight, responsive sites using raw HTML, CSS, and JavaScript, integrating fully functional e-commerce setups without sacrificing page speed.
- Clean, semantic code with a strong focus on core web vitals, accessibility, and modern SEO best practices.
